These fifteen bills were sent to Mr. J. T. Porter, a highly respectable commission merebant in this city, by a house in Mobile, with a package of some four or five thousand dollars. He lid not notice their being counterfeits, nor suspect their genuineness, till they were condemned at the bank.

The previous counterfeits were not the same size of the genuine, and could be detected by casurement, as we described; but these new base issues are so nearly the same size that ! measurement cannot be applied as a test. There are, however, several points about them, which a careful observer can detect.

The bill before us is signed "A. W. Gray, for Treasurer." The word "for" is in mail common italies, and "Treasurer" is in mall capitals: thus "for TREASURER.". In he counterfest, the hair line on which the sigisture is written, passes across the 'f' in the rord "fer" and touckes the tops of the letters is line on which the signature is written. It cases the upper portion of the "f," but does ot touch the "or" being above them. This is the only distinction we are able to describe that we think can be comprehended by readers genrally. The mallet is made black, the sailor a dieveled hairis amouthed down, the handle on the on box is right, and the weman's head is the right place. All the points of difference re remedied, so that only an experienced person an detect them by their general appearance.

Now what are the people to do?

The Buty of the Pinnters.

The grand jury of Fayette county, Ga., a beir recent session, offered the following angrestions in their presentments: "In regard to planting cotton in our county or the next year, if planted to any great extent we cannot but regard it as a futal step toward he destruction of our Confederacy, and would espectfully recommend our representative from this county to use his influence in the passage of such a law as will prevent it from being planted, only in such quantities as are necessary for domestic purposes. We would also ask him to use his influence in the passage of such a law as will prevent the distillation of grain." Whether the legislature enacts such a law or not, patriotism should dictate to our planters a petition of the pian which they so generally opted in the past planting season. If the war oes not close by the time for putting in the new rep, it will be as great a folly to plant a full rop of cotton as it was the past season. Enough domestic uses and for seed should be planted ut full crops would be the rain of the country But at the present time, the planting of large rops of wheat is the policy which should b pted throughout the Confederacy. Flour i much more useful to the army than ourn meal scanse it can be much better saved and more adily used; and, in order to supply the army ith flour, large crops of wheat must be planted t will be profitable to the planters, as the prices uring the war, though it is to be hoped tha esent altitude. And even if it were not profit ble, it is a patriotic duty that the planters own o the country and to the cause of Southern inspendence, to sow an abundance of grain. As its distillation, we do not know whether comlete legislation against it would be altogether dvisable or beneficial. There is a governmen emand for liquor, at least for medicinal pur tion of grain is effectively and totally prohibned, in any ore of the S ares, it will greatly diminish the supply, and emberrass the govern ment in this respect. It will be the duty of the egislature, therefore, at its next session, to leg islate cantionaly on affairs of such general is terest. While attending to the rights and inter
